

Undergrad open house

Julia Koehler

More than 100 prospective undergraduate students and their faculty mentors representing 29 institutions visited campus recently for a day of poster sessions, scientific presentations and guided tours through Vanderbilt laboratories. Above, Eric Hustedt, Ph.D., (right) explains electron paramagnetic resonance at a tour of his research laboratory.